DEATHS

MR. L. F. CALDWELL

Mr. Lyle Foster Caldwell, 61, Farmer, died yesterday at his home near Spout Spring. He was the son of the late Will B. and Clementine Crawford Caldwell. He was born July 27, 1896 in Appomattox County. He was a member of Hopkins Baptist Church. He was also a veteran of World War I. Surviving him is his wife, Annie Carson Caldwell, two daughters, Mrs. N. B. Williams, Lynchburg, and Mrs. R. C. Miller, Piney River; a son, W. C. Caldwell, Mt. Lakes, N. J., and nine grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday at 2 P. M. from Hopkins Baptist Church by the Rev. C. E. Rock and the Rev. Irvin Booth. Burial was in the church cemetery. Active pallbearers were: Jack Caldwell, Elliott Carson, James Jordan, Tom Davidson, Benny Foster, Dan Carson, Austin Crawford and Jessie Davidson.

MR. V. V. TIGNOR

Virgil V. Tignor, 45, died unexpectedly Feb. 20 at his home in Appomattox. He was the son of the late Hatten S. and Virginia Pearl Williams Tignor. He was born June 12, 1912 in Appomattox County, and was a veteran of World War II. He is survived by his wife, Alice Colvin Tignor; a son, Malcolm R. Tignor; a daughter, Alice Faye Tignor; three sisters, Mrs. Rosser, Appomattox; Mrs. Callicott, Miami, and Mrs. Doris Hackworth, Tampa, Fla., and one brother, Donald S. Tignor, Huntington, W. Va.

Funeral services were held Monday at 11 A. M. in the Robinson Funeral Chapel. Burial and committal services were held at 3 P. M. in Culpeper National Cemetery, Culpeper. Services were conducted by Rev. Ronald Clark. Miss Peggy Godsey, organist, provided a program of music. Pallbearers were Charles R. Thomas, Judson J. Morris, Basil Bryant, Charlie Williams, Jack Paulette and John S. Grinels.

About The Home

By Frances Dell

Cheddar cheese is often said to be America's most popular cheese. Everyone enjoys its good taste and high nutritive value. Another big point in its favor is the fact that while other edibles have been rising in cost, cheddar has been selling at the same price for the past three years. Sharp cheddar is generally about 75 cents a pound; the mild and processed varieties, about 55 cents.

The price for cheddar has remained steady because production has continued at a high level. Supplementing the quantities that have been produced are large storage holdings of cheese.

Cheddar, which often goes by the name of American cheese, did not originate here. It was first made in the English village of Cheddar, in Somerset County. Some historians claim that the first cheddar was made in this country by the Pilgrim fathers in about 1620. The first factory for the commercial production of cheddar here was established in Herkimer County, New York. This state has been famous for its cheese ever since.

One of the most popular ways to serve cheddar is with apple pie—said to be Americans' favorite dessert.

Cheddar lends distinctive flavor to many cooked dishes.

People Set New Saving Peak At $253 Billions

NEW YORK — Americans, from protection, realize the same time, belong to most the greatest need of our high-level economy, the American people have set the total of their accumulated savings in life insurance and other long-term thrift mediums to above the $253 billion level this year.

This is a new high mark in the nation's personal thrift annuals. It was accomplished by an increase of nearly $9 billions in the first half of this year in savings accumulated behind life-insurance policies, time deposits in mutual savings and commercial banks, and accounts in savings and loan associations, according to data compiled by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

The increase for the period in these three thrift mediums taken together was the largest in years and more than offset an aggregate decline of close to $1½ billions in two other classifications of long-term savings of individuals—U. S. Savings Bonds and Postal Savings. As a result, the net increase in accumulated long-term savings came to $7½ billions between January and June, lifting the total at mid-year to a new high of more than $253 billions. This figure is the equivalent of over $5,000 for every American household.

Accident Victims Basis of Study

CHICAGO — Accidents account for about 7 per cent of all cases treated in American hospitals, according to a new survey by the American Medical Association.

Accidents combined with pregnancy, the other great medical-case category," account for one-fourth of the total hospital load according to the A.M.A. Journal. Many people believe that all patients are hospitalized for disease, the editorial noted.

The study on accidents, prepared by the A.M.A. Bureau of Medical Economic Research and reported in the current Journal, is a part of the comprehensive survey of medical services given to the American people. The accident study was based on information about patients discharged from 6,000 general and special hospitals during November, 1955. Tuberculosis and mental hospitals were excluded from the study.

The 128,000 patients hospitalized because of accidents comprised 6.9 per cent of all patients discharged during the month. The average hospital stay for accident patients was 10.7 days as compared with 9.1 days for nonaccident patients. The accident cases required the use of 50,500 beds, or 5.7 per cent of total beds available.

Geophysical Year Seeks Northwest Passage Data

WASHINGTON — One of the many questions to which International Geophysical Year Scientists seek an answer is: How soon, at the present rate of Arctic thawing, may ships on schedule traverse a Northwest Passage across the top of North America during the summer months?

For their answer they can now draw on vital information supplied by five weather stations installed on Canadian Arctic islands 1947-1950. They can draw also on the experience of ships operating for the United States Military Sea Transport Service in supplying those stations and the 50 radar outposts of the DEW (Distant Early Warning) Line.

The DEW Line, stretching from Alaska's far-west Cape Lisburne to Baffin Island, went into full operation last August. Weather and radar outposts alike are manned almost exclusively by Canadian and United States civilians.

It's Really Glue That Holds World Together

WASHINGTON—Geophysics notwithstanding, it's glue that holds the world together.

Since earliest times, men have needed to stick one material to another. King Tut sat on glued furniture. In present-day life, if all glue turned to dust, countless objects ranging from pianos to supersonic planes would fall apart. The average house would be a shambles.

Fortunately, the National Geographic Society says, nature has provided plenty of glue—animal, vegetable, and mineral. Tried-and-true natural glues still pull more than their own weight, but the best new adhesives come from synthetic resins.

Income Up

WASHINGTON—Half of all U.S. families had a total income of $4,700 or more in 1956, 8 per cent over the 1955 figure, according to the Bureau of the Census. The bureau's figures were based on a median—numerical middle—rather than an average.

The simplicity of spring's silhouette gives added importance to scarves. Oblong, extra long, loosely tied, hanging free, or extremely large squares folded and tied triangle-style— all are ideal accents for the uncluttered line found in dresses.

The stand-away collars of suits and coats also often call for a scarf at the neck. The new importance of fine hose with the use of scarves the finishing touch for dresses.

MRS. W. R. REED TO BE INSTRUCTOR AT MEMORIAL

Mrs. William R. Reed, of Richmond, Va., and wife of the late Rev. William R. Reed, former pastor of the Memorial Methodist Church, Appomattox, will be one of the instructors in the Christian Workers Training School to be held in the Memorial Church March 7-21, beginning each night at 7:30 and continuing for two fifty-minute periods.

Mrs. Reed just recently retired from the Directorship of the Children's Work of the Western North Caroline Methodist Conference, where she was engaged for eight years, having had many experiences with the young children there and in the Church School and the Public School.

She will teach the course: "The Home and Church Working Together."

All teachers and workers with children in the local churches of the Appomattox area are most earnestly urged to be present for each of the five evenings of instruction.

Persons of other denominations are cordially invited to attend and share the rich experiences of this very capable teacher in the area of children's work. The teacher has also suggested that parents will be warmly welcomed for the course.

Mrs. Reed contributes to many of the religious publications for Children's Workers.

Young Farmer Award

Virginia Beach.- Carl H. Barnhart, a young dairyman from Rocky Mount, Va., has been named Virginia's top young farmer by the Virginia Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The announcement was made Saturday, Feb. 15, at a luncheon honoring 19 local contest winners at the Cavalier Hotel in Virginia Beach. Virginia Jaycees were in quarterly conference in Virginia Beach from February 14-16.

M. B. Ott, Jr., of Bealeton, and William M. Park, of Skipwith, were runners-up in the state-wide contest.

The honor topped a long list of achievements for Carl H. Barnhart.

Barnhart, 28, became part owner of his present farm in 1952; full owner in 1954. To acquire his farm and build it into the outstanding dairy operation it is today, took years of work and planning.

In 1954, 25 cattle was the maximum the farm would support. Extensive improvements, good planting and good conservation practices have increased his farm's capacity until today, it is a 75-head, grade A operation.

Barnhart attributes much of his success to his policy of keeping in constant touch with agricultural experts and following their advice carefully. His farm today is a model of what established practices can produce.

Since he began farming, Carl Barnhart has increased his livestock investment 225%; his land acreage owned from 0 to 254; his worth in buildings and equipment 311%, and his net worth 1160%.

His activities off the farm are extensive. He is past president of his FFA chapter, president of Antioch Church of the Brethren Sunday School, member of the Virginia Farm Bureau, Dairy Herd Association, Roanoke Milk Producers Association, and Callaway Puritan Club. He has been an active participant in 4-H work and is now a member of the 4-H club county council.
